This was done in the presence of the class facilitator, who began the day with a simple test, as usual, to determine whether each student had mastered writing her name and address easily. She continued by ensuring their memorization and familiarization with the alphabet, reading and writing, vocalization, correct pronunciation, and articulation. The letters so that they can write correctly and read properly. The class facilitator was keen to have the students go out and write on the board with their hands to remove their exam fear. The numbers and how to write them were explained, as well as some simple arithmetic problems such as addition, subtraction, multiplication and division. The necessity of commitment and presence at the agreed-upon exam times was clarified, as the students' attendance and absence will be monitored to determine the extent of their commitment, keenness and interest in attending the main exam. They were encouraged and guided with some controls that must be adhered to in the exam. It was agreed that next Monday, 4/28, will be the exam day, in agreement with the General Authority for Literacy and Adult Education.
